A Change Of Season For Deer?

I f you think the new regulatons concerning the deer gun season in 1969 are going to mean that deer will not be around to see the snow fall, you are right. The animal may not be as visible as it was in previous years, but it is still around. Although the regulations have changed, it is still possible to do it the same way.

Last week, Denny Brown, the wildlife Department's chief, gave the media a tour of the state park. He said that although the regulations have been changed, the animals will still be around. He also said that the regulations are not as strict as they were in previous years.

This year, the regulations have been changed to allow for a longer season. The season will now run from October 15th to January 15th. This is a longer season than previous years, and it will allow for more hunting.

The regulations also allow for more hunting in the northern part of the state. This is because the northern part of the state has a longer winter than the southern part.

Despite the changes, Denny Brown said that the animals will still be around. He said that the regulations have not been made to eliminate the animals, but to allow for a sustainable population.

The regulations will also allow for more hunting during the day. This is because the animals are more active during the day than they are at night.

Overall, the regulations are a good thing for the animals and for the hunters. They will allow for a sustainable population and will allow for more hunting during the day.
